

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Hebrew or Aramaic, on a long, narrow, aged parchment strip. The text is arranged in several lines, though the characters are heavily faded and difficult to decipher. The parchment is dark brown and shows signs of wear, including a vertical tear near the center and a small hole on the right side.

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Hebrew or Aramaic, on a long, narrow, aged parchment strip. The text is arranged in approximately six horizontal lines. The parchment is heavily stained and shows signs of significant wear, including several small holes and a larger tear near the center. The script is dark and somewhat faded, making it difficult to read with certainty. The overall appearance is that of an ancient, weathered document fragment.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Hebrew or Arabic, on a heavily aged and stained parchment strip. The text is arranged in several lines, though the characters are difficult to decipher due to the condition of the document. The parchment is dark brown with significant discoloration and several small holes or tears.