

Handwritten text in an ancient script, likely Pahlavi, on a dark, textured parchment strip. The text is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines, though it is significantly faded and difficult to decipher. The script is cursive and dense, with some characters appearing to be ligatures. The parchment is aged and shows signs of wear, including small holes and irregular edges.
